AOS Services, Inc. is a multi-service company that provides on-site servicing and inspection of firefighting equipment to the DoD worldwide. Our services range from ladder/hose testing, compressors, SCBA's, rescue equipment, pump testing, the whole nine yards.

We're currently looking to add another technician to our traveling team who is willing and able to cross-train in the services we currently provide and can bring something new to the table (ideally suppression system or fire alarm experience.) AOS will provide all training and certification courses necessary for the job.

This position offers the opportunity to learn a wide-range of new skills, a strong team environment and the opportunity to travel to remote areas of the world (Spain, Korea, Diego Garcia, Italy, to name a few.)

Ideal Candidate

As this is a traveling position, the candidate MUST be able to be on the road, sometimes months at a time. Please keep that in mind depending on your current living situation.

That being said, we currently have a large portion of work in Southern California, so qualified candidates living in that area will receive preference.

We are currently looking for someone with fire suppression and/or fire alarm background and certification to add their skills to our arsenal, however other qualified candidates will be considered.
